

Summarised Friday Sermon

2nd June 2006

Towards An Excellent Society

- Allah s.w.t has honoured us with Islam. Hence, if we find something else besides Islam, we will be disgraced by Allah s.w.t.
- Islam does not remain stagnant for a certain people or at a certain time. Instead, Islam is flexible. Islam remains relevant to be practised by any people, and at any time.
- We as Muslims must be proud of Islam. To be proud that this religion which we believe in, is a complete and all-encompassing religion.
- To be an excellent ummah, we must return to Islam. Let us practise all the teachings of Islam, and not just a part of Islam not to focus only on the rulings of the rituals, without thinking about the spiritualistic aspects of the ritual itself.
- To achieve excellence in our life, and for our society, we must practice Islam in its entirety. We need to be particular in performing all the rituals which have been ordained upon us
- We must be an excellent ummah. This is the demand of Islam on us and this will happen naturally as a result of complete obedience to the teachings of Islam. Let's all return to the teachings of Islam and practise them.
