

Summarised Friday Sermon

30th MARCH 2007

Rasulullah, A Blessing to All

- Tonight is the night of 12 Rabiul Awal, the birth date of our beloved Prophet Muhammad s.a.w. a very significant and blessed occasion. Rasulullah s.a.w was born on Monday morning, just before Fajr. As if telling the world: Behold! The time has come for iman and islam shine through the darkness of disbelieve and injustice. Iman and islam, shone by our Prophet s.a.w to this world, the sealer of all prophets before him.
- When the time came for our Prophet s.a.w to come out to this world, Aminah and the women helpers saw that blessed baby s.a.w was shining so brightly that the whole room was lighted up. The Prophet s.a.w did not come to this world like any other ordinary babies. He came out to this world, clean, circumcised and with his umbilical cord already detached.
- His birth was welcomed by all, the angels praised him. The animals gave him salam. The Quraish people who lived during that time related how their biggest idol fell down to earth that night. They carried it back to its place. And it fell down again.
- The love to our Prophet s.a.w and to listen to his advices will make us an ummah that are resilient in facing life's challenges. This is because we will be compelled to follow the Prophet s.a.w in all aspect. And the Prophet s.a.w is the best of example in facing life's challenges.
- Our salutations of blessings to our beloved Prophet s.a.w will bring him closer to our heart, and closer to him physically in the Hereafter. Our salutations of blessings will also raise our stations in the eyes of Allah. The Prophet s.a.w said: Which means: Whoever gives me one salutation of blessings.
- Let us increase our good deeds. Be a blessing to all as much as our Prophet s.a.w was a blessing to all. Every good deed that we do, to whomever, will be a testimony to our love to the Prophet s.a.w.

