

Summarised Friday Sermon

3rd November 2006

The Importance of Contributing

- To contribute is a noble act and when a person contributes to others, both sides will benefit. The contributor will receive the blessings of Allah, and the receiver will get something that can assist him.
- Rasulullah s.a.w said: Which means: O sons of Adam! What you give to others from the extras that you have that is better for you. Instead, if you keep it to yourself (without giving to others) then that is bad for you.
- It is time for us to think what other contributions can we give to others. To our surroundings, our families, our friends, our neighbours, our nation and others.
- Let us think for a while about what do we have that can be of benefit to others? For certain, no man is an island. We are always dependent on others thus we need to contribute to others.
- A true believer in Islam will not sit idle while his community continues to lag behind especially in the areas of religion. Our progress depends much on the contributions of all segments of our community.
- We must relive this honorable tradition and as we celebrate Hari Raya, we must continue to think of those less fortunate than us. Our contributions mean a lot to them and our contributions can change their life for the better.
- Let us remember what Rasulullah s.a.w said: "The best person is the one who gives the greatest benefits to others."
