Youths in Islam's Perception

- One of the most important deeds that we should all do is to raise our children in the right and best way so that they will be amongst those who are guided. A pious child can not only make doa for his parents when they gone but also will continue to be good vicegerents on Earth.
- Lets work together to help our youth understand our religion, to know our civilization and our ways, and to love our Prophet. We have to use methods that are appropriate approaching them with love and gentleness because only with love and gentleness can we attract them and enjoin them to do good.
- We also need to pray for their well-being and always be with them by their side, listen and talk to them in order to help them in facing today's challenges. The youth is our hope for the future of our religion. Do not assume that they are inherently weak and cannot do anything.
- Islam was spread to all corners of the globe because of the energetic youth of the Prophet, who aspired to spread the light of truth for Allah s.w.t. Many of the Companions were youths when they first embraced Islam. To our youths, you have a place of honour in the eyes of Allah s.w.t. So do not waste your chance to do good and your opportunity to change the world.
- The youth today face challenges we have never seen, remember that the bigger your challenge, the bigger the rewards. Be proud of being a Muslim youth. Know that Allah looks upon those who love Islam and its teachings favourably.
- In summary, lets teach our youth with kindness and love as has been taught by the Prophet. The Muslim youth is an asset to all of humanity thus they have high regard in Allah's eyes. With a Muslim identity, they shall be proponents of peace and progress, and do good to our religion, people and country.
