

Summarised Friday Sermon

2nd MARCH 2007

GOOD MORAL VALUES BENEFITS ALL

- There is no doubt in our heart that our beloved Prophet s.a.w. is the most caring and loving person amongst us. His care and love is not limited to his wives or children but all Muslims felt the love and compassion.
- Let's look at the Syariah that he brought along. It is full of blessings and compassion. It is known that our beloved Prophet loves to perform prayers. He would prolong his prayers by reciting long chapters of the Qur'an but he shortens it if there were a child crying of the presents of the old and weak.
- The Prophet's compassion never stops to radiate. For example, the rejection by the people of Thaif. It was reported that Allah had sent an angel, guardian of mountains, to crush the city of Thaif with the mountains if the Prophet instructed. But listen to what our beloved Prophet has said: "I hope that their descendents will accept this message and worship only Allah"
- Despite such grave insults and his own personal injury, the Prophet prayed to Allah for His guidance. The Prophet even pardoned his enemies that have inflicted harm to him and his followers.
- The Prophet's love and care radiates to all mankind, believers and non-believers alike. These are some moral values that our Prophet had shown us. Moral values that bring blessings. Moral values that benefit all mankind.
- We should emulate this value. Value of compassion and care for all. Values that will benefit all mankind. This is part of our identity that we must be proud of. A Singaporean Muslim identity.
